

BROADBAND CABLE TELEVISION AND COMPUTER NETWORK

Abstract of the Disclosure

A communication system is provided which may comprise an upstream source of broadband communications and a downstream local area network, wherein the upstream source of broadband communications is coupled to the downstream local area network through a notch filter. In some embodiments, the upstream source of broadband communications may be a cable television service provider, and the local area computer network may use existing cable television wiring as communication cable.

TRA-1962.4
032597

S:\DOCS\UFG\UFGK-2434.DOC060403